FIRST REGIMENT.

THE nucleus of the First Regiment assembled at Pimlico on April 25th, 1898. Companies "A," "B," "C," "D," "E," "F," "G" and "K" were mustered into the United States service on May 15th and 16th, with an enlisted strength of seventy-seven each. The Regiment left Pimlico for Fort Monroe, Virginia, on May 19th, arriving the next day. Four companies were added to the Regiment on July 6th, and at the same time the companies began to be recruited, reaching full war strength of one hundred and six men each a few days after. The Regiment left Fort Monroe for Camp Meade, Pennsylvania, on September, 7th, reaching their station the next day. It left for Camp Mackenzie, near Augusta, Ga., on November 11th, and arrived on the 14th. The Regiment was mustered out at that place on February 28th, 1899.

NAVAL MILITIA.

On April 23d, 1898, eight officers and one hundred and sixty-seven enlisted men from the Maryland Naval Militia reported on the ship "Dale" for service on the United States Ship "Dixie" and joined the latter ship at Norfolk. During the following week the complement was increased to twelve officers and two hundred and sixty-five enlisted men. The remainder of the Naval Militia at once reported on the "Dale" for instruction and drill. Between the 22d and 25th of May, thirteen officers and one hundred and sixty-three men were mustered into the United States service and assigned to different coast defence vessels. The "Dixie," officered and manned by members of the Maryland Naval Reserve, rendered valuable service. Among these were the capturing of Spanish prizes, the landing of food, clothing and munitions of war on the Spanish coast, and the part taken in the surrender of Ponce, Porto Rico, on July 27th, 1898.
